The Big Petition for Evening Concerts in East River Park.

Filed by "The Evening World" with the Park Commissioners.

More Reasons Why the Music Should Be Reserved for Workers.

The community petition for evening concerts at East River Park, which THE EVENING WORLD has been presenting to the interests of the residents of that pretty pleasure resort, is now in the hands of the Board of Park Commissioners.

The bulky document was formally presented to Charles D. Forest, Burns, the Secretary of the Board, by an EVENING WORLD reporter yesterday afternoon, in order that the commissioners might have an opportunity of taking action upon it at the regular meeting this morning.

It was earnestly hoped that favorable action would be taken in the matter to-day, but for some reason no meeting of the Board was held, and the petition will therefore lay over until the next meeting of the Board, one week from to-day.

Secretary Burns signed his entire willingness to present the petition to the Board at its first meeting, and appeared somewhat surprised at the size and length of the document.

And well he might. The petition bears the names of nearly 2,000 residents of the neighborhood of East River Park, nearly all of whom are working people.

It is this class of people that frequents the park.

At present they can enjoy none of the entertaining concerts given there in the afternoon by Hall's old Guard Band, for the simple reason that they are not at work during the day. By the time they arrive home the musicians have gone, and not even the busy housewives in the vicinity have been able to enjoy the concerts, because they have been kept at home preparing the evening meal for the husbands, sons and daughters who have toiled all day in stores, shops and factories.

The Park Commissioners have now in their possession plenty of evidence that the frequenters of East River Park almost unanimously desire evening concerts.

If they desire further security proof that attorney concerts are not popular at East River Park with the masses who live in the neighborhood, let them visit the place to-morrow afternoon and see for themselves how few people are able to attend the concert. If the day is still sixteen to one there will be scarcely any more than a dozen, or even a dozen, of the rich, who represent the employers of the rich, who transact their business in the park, who can afford to pay the extra charge for an evening concert.

"My poor constituents know you for a long while," observed Mr. Burns, "and I am sorry to say that they are not very numerous." "Mr. Clark had been my friend since my boyhood," replied Mrs. Schell indignantly, "and I am sorry to say that he is not a gentleman." "You don't know him," said Mr. Burns, anxious to prevent any unpleasantness at the hearing.

"I do know him," retorted the first carriage after the hearing," persisted the self-announced relative.

Bonne and Bremer went home with young ladies they had taken to the ball and then returned to take Mrs. Stocker and Miss Tierney home for a purpose. During that forenoon of card-playing and forfeits of blushing faces and kisses Stocker discovered his wife with Bremer, and was then that his insanity manifested itself. In law he was irresponsible, and under the provocation of his wife he committed suicide.

"I did not know I don't care."

"I don't think so, but we'll see," responded Mrs. Schell.
